

PAMEL d.o.o

Pamel, is a limited liability company, (www.pamel.hr) was founded and commenced with work in 1992 privately owned. Their primary orientation is medical activity.

The company's work program is primarily developmental-productive. We have developed several products for the fields of neurophysiology, psycho-physiology and physical medicine and rehabilitation independently and in cooperation with professional institutions.

One of our their recognizable products is COMBY EEG cap. The development of this cap began in 1996, and it is about our innovation that has been successfully commercialized.

The quality, utility and applicability of the Comby EEG cap has been rated very high.

Today Comby EEG cap is in serial production, both for routine and special EEG recording. It is used in many clinics, hospitals, health centers and private clinics in Croatia, Slovenia, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Serbia, Macedonia, some EU countries, Russia and the USA. It is compatible with a different EEG appliance either to be connected directly or via a cable adapter. We continue to be committed and committed to improving and improving Comby EEG caps by listening to our partner and profession experience.

Given the specificity of our product, which is highly specialized and not widely used, our past experience confirms that the best cooperation is achieved after a direct presentation to our professional users. It is about health institutions, clinics, hospitals or specialized practices from the aforementioned areas of medicine.

We are more than willing to do direct presentations through agreement and your engagement about finding new users.

And so far, we have contacted your offices to receive email addresses from potential companies dealing with similar children whom we have addressed, but given that such presentation form is insufficient to recognize the benefits and the quality of our product, we have not had any commercial effect.
